Association for Heritage Association (AHI) Journal

Author guidelines

Our vision for the AHI journal is that the articles are readable, thought-provoking and practical. We welcome examples of UK-based and international, small and larger, projects which show innovative ways of delivering interpretation to different audiences.

We reserve the right to refuse solely self-promotional articles.

Many of our readers use the journal for practical advice and idea generation for project planning. To meet these needs, we would like all submissions to answer the following questions:

- What key lessons were learnt during the project, i.e. what worked and didn't work?
- What would you do differently next time?
- What steps will you take to sustain the project?
- What's the project's legacy?

Text to include:

- A short introductory paragraph to serve as a summary of article
- A short, punchy main title (up to 5 words)
- Short subtitles to break up text (3-5 words each)
- Short biographical details about you, including job title and email address (10-15 words)
- Your social media handle and website address

Article word limit: 1,000 words
Please include references and details of any relevant further reading

Format
Submissions to be sent in English, as a Word document without graphics

Please include a minimum of three images, to be supplied as:
- Digital scans saved as TIFF or JPEG files, resolution 300dpi at A4 size
- Please don't forget to include captions and credits.

Copy and images to be sent via WeTransfer or MailBigFile (or similar) to: journal@ahi.org.uk

Please include the postal address of where you'd like complimentary copies sent.

Reviewed October 2019